TROLLEY KILLS ADAMS NATIVE

Moses Miller, Formerly of Clear Spring, Run Down by Car in Harrisburg.

HAD ATTENDED FUNERAL

Accident Occurs As He Is Returning Home; Steps in Front of Street Car As It Rounds Curve.

Moses Miller, 77 years old, a native and former resident of Clear Spring, Adams county, was instantly killed when he was struck by an east-bound Penbrook trolley car, at Beck's curve, beyond Twenty-first and State streets, Harrisburg, Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. Miller had attended the funeral of George Hess, tobacconist, of 2209 Jonestown road, earlier in the afternoon. Hess had been his friend for years. Miller was about to take a car to return to the city. Stepping from the south side of the street he was apparently intending to cross to take an incoming car.

It is believed that Mr. Miller, whose hearing was defective, failed to hear the approaching trolley car. He was struck by the front door and was thrown a distance of about four feet.

C. V. Cassel, motorman of the car, said after the accident that he saw Miller near a pole on the south side of the street and that he was looking toward Penbrook. The man stepped toward the track when the car was only a car's length away.

Mr. Miller was born near Clear Spring, Adams county. He has been a resident of Harrisburg for about thirty-eight years. For many years he was a carpenter. He attended the Otterbein United Brethren Church.

He is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Martha Warden, with whom he made his home; three sons, Mahlon R. Miller, sales manager of the United Ice and Coal Company, Harrisburg; Victor Miller, of Harrisburg; and Carl S. Miller, of Williams' Grove.

That Chamber of Commerce Campaign

(AN EDITORIAL)

It was to be expected that the "Anvil Chorus" would be heard from in connection with the Chamber of Commerce campaign to do bigger things in advancing the interest of Gettysburg.

"Knockers" today are fewer than they have ever been before, and there are some few who really can't see how a full-time paid organization is going to bring large returns indirectly in the future to everybody in the community.

The fact that a full time organization of the Chamber of Commerce is not an experiment, but has been put to the practical test and found invaluable in Waynesboro, Chambersburg, Hanover, Carlisle and many other neighboring towns, ought to be sufficient evidence to at least give it a trial.

Some excuses of Gettysburg business people for not joining wholeheartedly in the movement are heard and most of them are the same excuses given in other community betterment movements. They are easy to enumerate.

"I Don't Like The Way They Are Running Things"

Then get in and help change them. If you are right you will, doubtless, find many others who will agree with you. This is a democratic organization. The policies of the Gettysburg Chamber of Commerce are in the control of nine directors chosen by the membership. If these nine men were in charge of some business corporation, you would be willing to invest all your savings in it on the strength of their standing. So representative are these men that they would add strength to any business with which they are working. Have you ever spoken to a single director or the secretary regarding the matters upon which they are working? Have you ever written them a letter? Have you given them any suggestions? Then how can you fairly criticize and refuse your help?

"The Gettysburg Chamber of Commerce Isn't Accomplishing Anything"

If you think that, you haven't read the newspapers and the official Chamber of Commerce bulletin. If you are uninformed, whose fault is it? We are not accomplishing as much as we could, but isn't that partly your fault?

"You Have Enough Without Me"

No excuse could be more selfish; because other men are willing to pull a load up hill is no reason why you should catch on behind and ride. You share in the benefits of the work of the Chamber of Commerce; you cannot avoid it if you live in Gettysburg—why not carry your end? The more members the Chamber has, the stronger it will be, and the more it can do for Gettysburg. There is not "enough" in this work. The problems and the duties are unlimited.

"My Place Is A Member Already"

But stores and industries are impersonal and can give only financial support. Time, energy, and personal interest are equally important elements of membership. The Chamber of Commerce is an organization of individual citizens. Because the business in which you are interested has taken a membership in no way relieves you from doing your share. If others did likewise, the Chamber of Commerce would soon be limited in its membership to the number of business places in the town, and then it would quickly become a cold business proposition, and unresponsive to the appeal of civic betterment.

"I'm Begged To Death Now"

Mighty few men give away more money than they should. A dead town is never canvassed for public movements. In a live town naturally something is doing all the time. The

CYCLONE CARRIES DESTRUCTION THROUGH ADAMS COUNTY IN NARROW STRIP WEDNESDAY

Houses, Barns and Trees, In Strip Six Miles Long And One-Fourth Mile Wide, Are Levelled With Earth, One Person Is Injured And Thousands of Dollars Damage Is Done by Hurricane; Queer Pranks of "Playful" Wind Are Described; Furniture Is Lifted Out of House And Scattered Over Nearby Fields; Power Lines Are Repaired.

One person was injured and damage running into thousands of dollars was created Wednesday afternoon by the cyclone which struck Adams county about 2:30 o'clock, swooping down from over the South Mountains, striking first along the Lincoln Highway a short distance west of Gettysburg. Practically all of the damage is confined to a narrow strip running eastward toward New Oxford.

The first place struck by the destructive force of the gale was on the place of T. S. Newman, where a part of a barn roof was taken off. While the wind was felt with some force in Cashtown and McKnightstown, it had not yet reached its full velocity, and no damage from the western part of the county is reported.

The next place in the path of the cyclone was on the W. T. Hartzell place, where the barn doors were forced inward.

Redding Farm Hit

At the farm of Charles Redding, just west of town, on the Lincoln Highway, the full force of the gale was felt, however, and there a large barn was levelled, the timbers being scattered far and wide. A number of smaller buildings on the place were also destroyed, including corn-crib, wagon shed and implement structures. An automobile, housed in one of the buildings, was found with the top crushed, but supporting timbers had prevented the full weight of the shed from damaging the automobile. A tractor was to be seen standing in the midst of the ruins of another building, the machinery undamaged. No injury was done to the house.

As the storm reached Gettysburg, the first marks of its passing were left on Chambersburg street. Here a large tree was blown down, falling by some freak manner across two automobiles in such a way as to leave them practically unharmed.

A chimney on the roof of the home of Danner Buchler, on East Middle street, was levelled. A large tree near the office of the Compiler broke a cement sidewalk as it rocked in the winds.

A bungalow on York street, occupied by Charles Culp, was severely damaged when the gale crashed in the northern gable end, scattering the bricks inside the house. Numbers of trees on York street were broken off, and telephone service on Wednesday afternoon was practically severed. The only lines reaching outside of Gettysburg were those going to Biglerville. The trouble was quickly rectified, however, and nearly normal service was in force by today.

Additional damage was done in the northern part of Gettysburg, when large trees were blown over, some lodging against residences and adding to the damage. The southern portion of the town almost entirely escaped the force of the wind. Number of roofs were damaged to greater or less extent on North Stratton and other streets of town.

In Reynolds Grove, on the battlefield, the wind cut a straight line through the grove, taking fifteen of the largest trees out by the roots.

The Gettysburg Electric Company power and light lines were severed by trees and limbs falling across the wires at a number of points east of Gettysburg, but the town was without power for only about three hours, when the breaks were again repaired and service resumed.

One Person Is Injured

Arthur Cunningham, son of Harry Cunningham, superintendent of the local electric plant, was the only person reported injured by the storm. Wednesday. Arthur was driving an automobile in the vicinity of the local furniture factories when a bolt of lightning struck so close to the car as to stun him for a few moments. Although he quickly recovered, Mr. Cunningham still bears the effects of the bolt in a painful burn on his left side. In the car with him at the time was Walter Lightner, who was not injured.

Continuing eastward in the direction of New Oxford, the storm stripped part of the roof from the barn on the Oyler and Spangler place, near the fertilizer plant. It also levelled the silo, and the roof has not yet been found anywhere on the premises.

Trees were scattered every direction by the cyclone as it progressed, the next place, "call" being at Paul Spangler's farm. Here a large tree standing between the barn and house was uprooted, but both buildings were spared as one of the freaks of the storm.

Another Of Storm's Freaks

At the property of John D. Eckert, the dwelling house was the building to suffer. While only small patches of shingles were stripped from the barn roof, the entire third story of the house was broken free, and scattered in small pieces across two fields. Another instance of the freakish action of the storm was evidenced here, in the fact that a large barrel, standing on the third floor, was left standing untouched on the new "top" of the house.

As the storm continued to gambol playfully across Adams county, it swirled around the place of G. W. Topper, where the entire upper story of the house was taken off even with the floor, carried across the Highway, and scattered in small particles in adjoining fields and pastures. The chimney was carried along with the rest of the upper part. On this property the roof of the barn was also taken away.

Wind Plays Another Prank

At this place, the wind, after tearing off the third story of the house, swooped down into the second story of the building with great force and carried out most of the furniture on that floor, strewn beds, chairs, tables and other articles all over the adjoining fields. Several pieces of meat, hanging in the attic when the storm struck, have not yet been found.

Orchard Is Levelled

At Vincent Redding's place the storm left the house and barn intact, but practically levelled a strip of orchard immediately beyond the house.

Swooping down next on the farm occupied by John Study, on the north side of the highway, the barn was practically demolished; the roof and three walls were scattered far and wide, only one wall remaining standing. A small section of a corn crib was also spared. The house, directly in the path of the storm, was untouched, although the bombardment of the walls by debris from the other structures is said to have been heavy.

The cyclone then skipped merrily around on a detour, and stripped away parts of the barn on the place of George Griffin, one-half mile south of the highway. Finding good hunting territory there, gales swept on eastward and took away the roof of the barn on the place occupied by Charles Cashman, some distance from the highway.

On the Bonneauville road, a barn on the farm occupied by Harry Loudensperger was shattered, and a silo on Walter Small's farm was carried away.

Returning again to the Lincoln Highway, the cyclone expended its last gentle touch in upsetting a gasoline service station run by a Mrs. Miller, and then broke an upper window on the west side of the home of Lester Weaver.

This was the last evidence of the fury on the gale to be seen in the eastern part of Adams county.

The storm lasted for about 10 minutes. While some little hail fell, in certain sections, it was not enough to do any damage. Parts of the county which were not in the path of the storm experienced difficulty in realizing the amount of damage done. South of Gettysburg, near Barlow, no rain fell and there was practically no wind.

In Littlestown, both the wind and rain storm amounted to little, it is reported.

North, in the vicinity of Arendts-ville and Biglerville, no demonstration was noted at the time the storm was going on here. New Oxford was beyond the territory of the damage, and Abbottstown pursued the even tenor of its ways during the disturbance in this section.

A survey of the damage in Adams county reveals the fact that the wind travelled much in a straight line, wreaking havoc to a strip one-fourth of a mile wide and six miles long.

While the wind and rain storm was accompanied by a brilliant display of lightning, no reports of lightning damage have been received here as yet, beyond the slight injury to Arthur Cunningham. Mr. Cunningham scoffed at his hurts, and continued at his duties in restoring the disrupted electric service to the county.

The most severe break in the power lines is said to have been at the farm of G. W. Topper, where parts of the roof were carried through the wires by the wind. Telephone lines at this place were also demolished by sections of the roof.

Electric service was again completed at 5:30 o'clock Wednesday, and telephone lines are now being rapidly restored.

According to Battlefield officials, about 65 trees were torn down at various places on the grounds. The greatest damage was done in Reynolds Grove, where a deep swath was cut.

The older residents of the county declare Wednesday's storm to have been the worst which has struck Adams county since September, 1896, when a hurricane swept through here. At that time, however, the havoc wrought is said to have been far greater than anything just experienced.

Hanover

Hanover fell a victim to the elements, too, although the damage there was not so great. A number of trees were blown down and telephone wires put out of service as well as light wires. Crews from the Hanover Power Company and both telephone companies were busily engaged after the storm in making the necessary repairs. Several poles along the trolley line from York were blown over.

The greatest damage in the vicinity of Hanover was reported on Broadway, extended, and in New Baltimore, where a great many trees were blown down and damage done to a number of properties. The wires at the property of Daniel Blucher, Broadway, extended, came in contact with the high power lines and burnt out the fuse, starting a fire in the house. A call was sent to the fire companies, which responded and extinguished the blaze with chemicals. The same trouble was experienced at the residence of Mrs. Robert Ballinger, nearby, but the damage there was less.

The chimney on the property of Samuel Huggins, between Hanover and New Baltimore, was struck by lightning. The garage on the same property was damaged to the extent of having the rear part blown in and an auto blown out, across the 'pike.

No street lights in Hanover were in service Wednesday evening except the lights in Center Square.

Damage At Harrisburg

Harrisburg, June 26.—For a short time Wednesday this city experienced one of the heaviest wind storms of years. While the Downtown section of the city did not receive the full force of the storm, the West End and Hill sections as well as the River Front suffered some damage.

Limbs of trees were torn down by the force of the wind along the River Front and several trees were blown down in city parks. A huge locust toppled in Reservoir Park, a tree was blown across the Cameron Parkway, four trees blocked roads in Wildwood, and one tree was blown down at the municipal bathing beach on the Island.

Canoeists Rescued

The suddenness of the storm caught many canoeists on the river unprepared. Four canoes were overturned and their occupants were

NEW OXFORD WINS DISPUTED POINT

Given Opportunity to Retrieve Recent Defeat by Gettysburg Team.

The directors of the Adams County Baseball League, at a meeting in the Fire Engine House here Wednesday evening, upheld New Oxford's protest of the game with Gettysburg here last Saturday, in which New Oxford was defeated in the tenth inning, and decided that the game must be played over.

The protest of New Oxford concerned ground rules and was entered in Gettysburg's half of the ninth inning when a runner went home from second base on an overthrow by a New Oxford player to first base. New Oxford contended that one base was all that should have been allowed the man on second base on the overthrow. This run, with a man on third base going home at the same time, tied the score and overcame a two-run lead held by New Oxford up to that time. It required the extra inning in which Gettysburg scored the winning run.

Littlestown withdrew its protest against a game won by McSherrystown. No change was made by the League directors in the umpires. Each town will continue to have one.

FURTHER DETAILS OF WEDDING GIVEN

Gettysburg Relatives at Marriage of LeRoy Winebrenner and Miss Plowman.

Further details of the wedding of Miss Gertrude Amelia Plowman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Calvin W. Plowman, 478 Carlisle street, Hanover, and LeRoy H. Winebrenner, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Winebrenner, Gettysburg, which took place Tuesday evening in the home of the bride's parents, by the Rev. Dr. George W. Nicely, pastor of St. Mark's Lutheran church, were available upon the return of Gettysburg relatives who attended.

The house decorations consisted of seasonal flowers tastefully arranged. The fireplace, in front of which the bridal party stood during the ceremony, was banked with laurel and daisies and mountain ferns in tall wicker baskets, forming an effective background.

Miss Mary Nail sang "I Love You Truly" by Carrie Jacobs-Bond, accompanied by Mrs. George W. Nicely, before the ceremony. Mrs. Nicely, presiding at the piano, played the wedding march from "Lohengrin," by Wagner as the processional. During the ceremony "Cangone Amorosa" by Nevin was softly rendered. At its conclusion Mrs. Nicely played the wedding march from "Midsummer Night's Dream" by Mendelssohn.

Miss Bertha Wentz attended the bride, while Keith Berger, Gettysburg, served as best man. The bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a flesh-colored satin crepe gown, heavily designed in pearls, with a train and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses. Miss Wentz was attired in a dress of white taffeta and carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Twenty-five guests including only the immediate families and a few friends were present. Out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Winebrenner and Miss Melva Heiges, Gettysburg; Mrs. Bessie Blair and Miss Mary Alice Foulks, Vincennes, Indiana. A buffet luncheon was served following the ceremony.

The bride is a graduate of the Hanover High School, class of 1922, and was a student for one year in the Ward-Belmont school, Nashville, Tennessee. Mr. Winebrenner is a graduate of Gettysburg College in the class of 1922 and is employed in the office of the state highway department at Gettysburg.

Mr. and Mrs. Winebrenner left on a motor trip to Delaware Water Gap and points in Canada. They expect to be gone about ten days. Upon their return they will reside at 457 Baltimore street, Gettysburg.

SMITH'S OVATION LONG DRAWN OUT

Following Nomination of New York Governor by Roosevelt, Noise Begins.

FIRE SIRENS BREAK OUT

Batteries of Noise-Machines and Marchers Fill Hall in Demonstration For Al. Smith as Nominee.

(By Associated Press.)

New York, June 26.—A tentative draft of the Democratic platform, containing alternative proposals on the Ku Klux Klan and the League of Nations, was submitted today to the committee on the platform.

Madison Square Garden, June 26.—Having given a renewed but brief demonstration for William G. McAdoo, the National Democratic convention today plunged into a demonstration to Alfred E. Smith. It was aided and pushed along by a complete organization of demonstrators, hundreds of whom marched into the Hall from the outside, bearing banners and noise-making devices.

Galleries and guest sections were obviously filled with friends of the New York governor and they let out a continuous series of howls and whistles. No sooner had Roosevelt finished his speech for Smith, than the racket broke out. From her box in the rear of the delegate's section, Mrs. McAdoo watched the demonstration.

As the demonstration passed the three-quarter-hour mark, the din seemed to be increasing rather than diminishing. A battery of fire sirens had been brought into action at one of the entrances, and it was almost impossible for those in the Hall to converse with one another for the clatter with which the supporters of the New York governor reaffirmed their faith in him.

Mr. Roosevelt remained at the stand. Then two men helped him to a seat while the show went on, and he refreshed himself with a light lunch. When the demonstration had reached an hour's duration, it was going as strong as ever. A few of the state standards had been returned to their places by the marchers, but most remained in the parade. A delegate at this stage of the march was a rarity among the demonstrators.

Madison Square Garden, June 26.—Four years ago in the Democratic National convention at San Francisco, a vigorous young man in the flower of his youth seconded the nomination of Governor Smith, and won for himself the vice presidential nomination.

Today the same young man, fighting against the creeping inroads of infantile paralysis, was assisted to the platform to nominate the Governor for the presidency. He was Franklin D. Roosevelt, former assistant secretary of the Navy, manager of the Smith campaign. He stood in the place of the late Bourke Cockran, now gone to his grave, and whose brilliant oratory of four years ago still was fresh in the minds of the delegates.

STOCK REPORT

(By Associated Press.)
New York, June 26.—Spirited buying of various speculative favorites, including low-priced rails, imparted a firm tone to stock prices at the opening of today's market. Gains were general throughout the list, with the exception of a few oils. The main body of stocks swung into a forward movement as trading progressed.
Continued bullish outbursts among industrial shares, such as U. S. Steel, Baldwin and American Can, climbing
one to three points, promoted widespread buying. Call money opened at 2 per cent.

thrown in the river. Other canoeists went to the rescue and both canoes and occupants were saved although a Reist steamboat had to go to the aid of one overturned party of canoeists.

Three sand flats, anchored in the river, tore loose from their moorings
during the storm, but were captured by steamboats of the coal fleets before they reached the dam at Dock street.

A flash of lightning that accompanied the storm burned out two oil switches at the plant of the Harrisburg Light & Power Company causing a part of the central section of the city to be without power. It took several minutes for the workmen to locate the trouble and repair the switches. During this time elevators and other machinery, dependent upon the electricity for power, halted.

York County Hard Hit

York, June 26.—A series of thunder storms which swept various parts of York county yesterday afternoon wrought considerable damage to crops and buildings. At Glen Rock
the property of Mrs. Alice Glatfelter suffered, the garage being unroofed and the side caved in. The roof was carried fifty feet away. A number of trees were blown down. The roof of the grand stand at the Shrewsbury playground was torn off and the structure practically wrecked.

The storm ruined many fruit trees
in the vicinity of Stewartstown, where the chimney on the house of Oscar Fulton was blown over and Earl Fulton's house was unroofed.
Rain poured through the large hole
in the roof and ruined much of Mr.
Fulton's household goods. Emanuel

$50,000 Damage In Shamokin

Shamokin, June 26.—Shamokin and the surrounding regions were swept yesterday afternoon by one of the most severe wind and rain storms that has been recorded here in fifty years. The roofs of a number of homes were ripped off; trees were uprooted and the cellars of hundreds of homes and business places were flooded by the water which rose over the curbstones and onto the sidewalks. The damage was estimated at $50,000.

At Paxinos, eight miles north of here, a large creek washery breaker owned by W. A. Sees, of Wilkes-Barre, was blown over and collapsed on the state highway, blocking motor traffic until a late hour last night.

Philadelphia, June 26.—Two storms,
which struck this vicinity yesterday afternoon, causing the deaths of two persons in Wilmington and the injury of scores, put an end to the heat wave here. Property losses, which aggregate more than $1,000,000, were reported from many sections near this city, but principally in Wilmington, where lighting systems were put out of service, cellars were flooded, roofs of scores of buildings were carried away and hundreds of trees and telephone poles were uprooted. Damage also was reported in some parts of Pennsylvania.

The mercury was forced down 22
degrees by the downpour in this city.
At 1 p. m. the mercury read 90 degrees, remaining at that mark until the storm broke. At 8 p. m. the thermometer registered 68 degrees.

Two storms struck Wilmington between 4:30 and 5 p. m.

At least 100 houses were damaged
in the storms, many of them were wrecked and the roofs were lifted from others. More than 200 trees were uprooted by the high winds, and the town was strewn with electric wires. The loss will total more than $1,000,000, it is estimated.

A 5-year-old child was killed after the storm when she grasped the end of a live wire dangling from a pole.
A man suffered the same fate when he tried to pull the child loose.

800 THOUSAND IN STATE UNDER-FED

Governor Pinchot Aghast at What He Hears in Health
Officers' Conference.

MEET AT MONT ALTO

Chief Executive Pledges Entire Support of His Administration to Conserve Child Health.

Mont Alto, Pa., June 26.—Governor Pinchot attended the encampment of 150 state health officers here yesterday and, on learning for the first time of the existence in Pennsylvania of 800,000 undernourished and tuberculous children, told the gathered physicians of his great dream, a giant power movement, which he hopes will reduce the congestion in disease-breeding large cities by inducing more and more people to go back to the land.

The governor expressed himself as being aghast at the revelation that so many of Pennsylvania's children have been thus neglected, and pledged the entire support of himself and his administration to a campaign to conserve child health.

He looked at his hearers and then
out of the window at a sun porch opposite, where nearly 100 tuberculosis patients of the 700 sheltered in the state sanatorium here were sunning themselves, and began to talk about the great project of his dreams.

He had been told by Dr. R. H. Mc-Cutcheon, head of the sanatorium, that 60 per cent of the tuberculosis patients of America are from large cities, and that 50 per cent of the patients here are from Philadelphia.

That these figures had made a deep impression was evident when he spoke so feelingly of the new electric era, which he said will conserve energy and life by eliminating drug-ery and city overcrowding.

The giant power movement, he explained, is a state project to have electric energy reach to the home of every farmer and outlying resident of Pennsylvania, so that farm work will cease to be a life of drudgery
and will come to be an attractive profession.

"HOOTCH" CAUSE OF HAY FEVER

'Homeopaths' Eighteenth Convention Hears Plea For Wines and Beer.

Cleveland, June 26.—It would be far better to restore light wines
and beer than to "permit the present orgy of health-wrecking dissipation
among the young men and women,"
Dr. Abraham R. Hollender, Chicago, told the eighteenth annual convention of the American Institute of Homeopathy yesterday.

Widespread indulgence in poisonous beverages was undermining the health of the younger generation and causing an alarming increase in hay fever, he said.

Addressing Tuesday's session, Dr.
R. S. Faris, Richmond, Virginia, made a plea to save women from midwives "whose superstition is dangerous and does nothing to encourage health after the birth of the child." He said that in some rural communities no other service was available, while in Virginia, because of shortage of physicians, many mothers depended upon colored midwives.

A statement by Dr. John P. Sutherland, dean emeritus of Boston University School of Medicine, ascribes
more deaths in the last fifty years to white flour and white sugar than to whisky. Declaring chicken eggs unfit to eat, Doctor Sutherland said,
"There isn't enough stuff in the egg to make a first-class brain cell."

50 OIL FIRMS IN MONOPOLY

That is Charge of Attorney General Who Asks Injunction to Halt Conspiracy.

ASSAILED IN SUIT

Accused of Violating Anti-Trust
Laws; Nearly All Important Companies, Including Standard, Cited.

Washington, June 26.—Fifty or more of the principal oil companies of the United States were attacked in anti-trust proceedings instituted by the government in the federal court at Chicago.

Attorney General Stone asked an injunction to restrain the companies from further violations of the Sherman act which he charged against them.

The complaint charged "a combination and conspiracy in restraint of trade and commerce among the several states and with foreign nations in gasoline, kerosene and other hydrocarbon products," or, generally,
all petroleum derivatives.

Most Sweeping Action

Nearly all the important companies, including all of the Standard companies, were cited. The attorney general charged them with having combined to control the production of gasoline by a pooling of asserted patent rights in violation of the antitrust act, naming as the primary defendants the Standard Oil companies of Indiana and New Jersey, and the Standard Development Company, the Texas Company and the Gasoline Products Company.

The action constituted one of the most sweeping anti-trust moves by the government in many years. Besides the principals, the attorney general named as parties several "secondary defendants" whom he charged were in the combination as a result of accepting licenses from one or more of the primary defendants.

Year Gathering Evidence

Agents of the department of justice have been busy for more than a year in working up evidence which culminated in the suit and it was made known Wednesday that Mr.
Stone felt the department had built up its case to the point where it could go into court without fear.

The attorney general took up the gasoline case immediately upon assuming office and has given much of his time to the task of solidifying
the government's position.

Worth racing for

Gee, Mister, if you've ever tasted
the real Orange-Crush, you'd race
your legs off just to get one!

Here are six reasons why it's so delicious: (1) The natural fruit oil of oranges—which gives that delicate and distinctive flavor; (2) The natural acid of citrus fruits (oranges, lemons and limes)—which gives the tang; (3) Orange juice; (4) Carbonated water—which gives "zip," sparkle, purity; (5) U. S. Certified food color—which makes it as appealing to the eye as to the taste; (6) Pure cane sugar.

That's all. My, what a drink!

"My Nerves Are Going With My Old Age," He Apologized. "That Support Seems Too Fragile."

This man would have wronged me and robbed me of my honor. I bade him defend himself in any way he thought well. It was his life or mine. He was a poor fighter and I killed him.

"And Margaret's mother died from the shock."

"She died soon afterward." The stars grew paler. The passing vehicles, with their brilliant lights, grew fewer and fewer. The breeze which had been so welcome at first turned into a cold night wind. She led the way back into the room.

"I must go," he announced. "You must go," she echoed, looking up at him. "Good-by!"

She was so close to him that his embrace, sudden and passionate though it was, came about almost naturally. She lay in his arms with perfect content and raised her lips to his.

He broke away. "He was himself again, self-furious."

"Lady Cynthia," he said, "I owe you my most humble apologies. The evil that is in me does not as a rule break out in this direction."

"You dear, foolish person," she laughed, "that was good, not evil. You like me, don't you? But I know you do. There is one crime you have always forgotten to develop—you haven't the simplest idea in the world how to lie."

"Yes, I like you," he admitted. "I have the most absurd feeling for you that any man ever found it impossible to put into words. We have indeed strayed outside the world of natural things," he added.

"Why?" she murmured. "I never felt more natural or normal in my life. I can assure you that I am loving it. I feel like muslin gowns and primroses and the scene of those first March violets underneath a warm hedge where the sun comes sometimes. I feel very natural indeed, Sir Timothy."

"What about me?" he asked harshly. "In three weeks' time I shall be fifty years old."

"And in no time at all I shall be thirty—and entering upon a terrible period of spinsterhood!"

"Spinsterhood!" he scoffed. "Why, whenever the society papers are at a loss for a paragraph, they report a few more offers of marriage to the ever-beautiful Lady Cynthia."

"Don't be sarcastic," she begged. "I haven't yet had the offer of marriage I want, anyhow."

"You'll get one you don't want in a moment," he warned her.

She made a little grimace.

"Don't!" she laughed nervously.

"How am I to preserve my romantic notions of you as the emperor of the criminal world, if you kiss me as you did just now—you kissed me rather well—and then ask me to marry you?"

It isn't your role. You must light a cigarette now, put the back of my hand, and swagger off to another of your haunts of vice."

"In other words, I am not to propose?" Sir Timothy said slowly.

"You see how decadent I am," she sighed. "I want to toy with my pleasures. Besides, there's that scamp of a brother of mine coming up to have a drink—I saw him get out of a taxi—and you couldn't get it through in time, not with dignity."

The rattle of the lift as it stopped was plainly audible. He stopped and kissed her fingers.

"I fear some day," he murmured, "I shall be a great disappointment to you."

men who approach you for your support in public movements are giving not only their money, but their time. If you get off for money only, you are getting the best of it. There is only one way to stop the subscription of money for public purposes in Gettysburg and that is to stop the movements. Would you like to see our public institutions and public movements stopped? Honestly, do you regret a single dollar you ever gave to help such a movement? Hasn't your reputation for generosity brought you many valuable acquaintances and business connections?

"I Can't Afford It"

There are mighty few men in Gettysburg who honestly can't afford to contribute less than seven cents a day to advance the business, civic, educational, health and other interests of their city. Are you sure in your own mind that the reason is valid in your case? Two dollars and eight cents a month is a mighty small price to pay for the benefits; these you cannot escape and you are not a man to share in those benefits without doing your part.

"I Haven't Time To Attend The Meetings"

That shouldn't prevent you giving your support financially. If other men are willing to give both money and time, you ought to be willing to give money alone. As one member said, "I can't serve on committees, but I am willing to pay extra dues on that account." But you can't afford to miss the meetings. You'll get new ideas, new thoughts and new energy from mixing with the type of men who make the Chamber of Commerce. And are you really too busy? You'll find at the meetings some of the busiest men in Gettysburg, and some of the most successful.

"There Is Nothing In It For Me"

Some men join a lodge or a church for what they can get out of it in a business way. The Chamber of Commerce is not a selfish business proposition. It won't appeal to the man who wants to use everything for his own selfish ends. The man who joins the Chamber of Commerce should do so with the soul intention of thus contributing to the welfare of Gettysburg. Perhaps the Chamber may be of some assistance to him, to his business or to his line of trade, but ordinarily he does not expect direct financial returns from his membership. The work of the Chamber cannot help but benefit him indirectly. It may be through the bringing of conventions, through the operations of the Publicity Bureau advertising Gettysburg as an historical shrine bringing tourists and money into town, or of the censorship of promiscuous soliciting propositions. But if in none of these ways, the member benefits through the knowledge that he is a map among men—he is carrying his share of the common burden.

Life is just one round of fun,
And I'm glad that it is so.

There's a thrill in climbing trees,
Walking fence rails, jumping

Doing things with daring ease
Which old age too dangerous deems.
Then he follows every whim,

Free from all forebodings black.

Fearing many a fall or blow,
But a lad runs everywhere,
And I'm glad that it is so.

Age with many a doubt is filled,
Age feels duty's harsh restraint,

NERVOUS, RUN- DOWN MOTHERS

Worn Out Caring for Children and Housework—See how Lydia
E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Helps

Indianapolis, Indiana.—"I was in a very nervous and run-down condition while nursing my baby, and hearing
some talk of Lydia
E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, I began taking it.
From the second bottle I noticed a big improvement, and I am still taking it. I am not a bit nervous
now, and feel like a different person. It is a great medicine
for any one in a nervous, run-down condition and I would be glad to give any one advice about taking it. I think there is no better medicine and give you permission to publish this letter."

Mrs. ANNA SMITH, 541 W. Woodward
Street, Indianapolis, Indiana.

The important thing about Lydia E.
Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is that it does help women suffering from the ailments common to their sex.

If you are nervous and run-down and have pains in your lower parts and in your back, remember that the Vegetable Compound has relieved other women having the same symptoms. For sale by druggists everywhere.

RHEUMATISM

Leaves You Forever

Deep Seated Uric Acid Deposits Are Dissolved and the Rheumatic Poison Starts to Leave the System Within Twenty-four Hours.

Every Druggist in this county is authorized to say to every rheumatic sufferer that if a full pint bottle of Allenrhu, the sure conqueror of rheumatism, does not show the way to stop the agony, reduce swollen joints and do away with even the slightest twinge of rheumatic pain, he will gladly return your money without comment.

Allenrhu has been tried and tested
for years, and really marvelous results have been accomplished in the most severe cases where the suffering and agony was intense and pitiable
and where the patient was helpless.

Mr. James H. Allen, of Rochester
New York, the discoverer of Allenrhu, who for many years suffered the torments of acute rheumatism, desires all sufferers to know that he does not want a cent of anyone's money unless Allenrhu decisively conquers this worst of all diseases, and he has instructed druggists to guarantee it as above in every instance.

New Treatment For Varicose Veins and Ulcers

Swollen veins are dangerous and often burst. Sufferers are advised to get a two-ounce, original bottle of Emerald Oil (full strength), at Peoples Drug Store and start to reduce the veins and bunches at once. Physicians recommend Emerald Oil; it is used in hospital practice and a small bottle will last a long time, because it is very concentrated and a little goes a long way. Apply night and morning with a soft brush as directed until the swelling is reduced to normal. So marvelously powerful is Emerald Oil that swollen glands and even goitres disappear when used steadily—adv.

Chats With Your Gas Man

Why are some gas bills higher than they should be?

Because the housewife uses the giant burner on her range, when a smaller one would do.

She lights two burners at a time, and then lets one of them wait while she is getting food ready.

She takes food off the fire and leaves the burner lighted.

She buys so-called gas-saving devices, without finding out whether they really save gas, although the gas company would tell her.

She uses the gas oven to heat the kitchen and to dry damp clothes.

She allows water and foods to boil furiously, instead of turning down the flame.

She uses a worn-out range, with burners out of adjustment.

She never cleans the burners of her range.

She uses larger cooking utensils than she needs.

She uses open vessels, which consume five times as much gas as closed vessels of the same size.

THIS PRETTY GIRL DEFIES AGE BY USING ORDINARY BUTTERMILK TO BEAUTIFY HER COMPLEXION

Tells Druggists not to take anyone's money unless this delightful new vanishing Cream quickly shows a decided improvement.

Buttermilk Cream creates beauty almost like magic. The most wonderful thing about it is the fact that whilst it turns the dull, most lifeless complexion to radiant beauty and makes red or rough hands or arms snowy white, yet there is not the slightest sign of its use after application. It actually vanishes from sight and the most heated atmosphere will not produce the least shininess or greasiness of the skin.

No matter whether you are troubled with a poor complexion, wrinkles, puffiness around the eyes, freckles, crows feet or lines around the mouth, ugly finger nails, or just a simple roughness of the face, hands or arms caused by wind or sun, you will find that any or all of these troubles will quickly disappear with the use of Howard's Buttermilk Cream.

To prove this to your complete satisfaction, get a small quantity today at your favorite toilet goods counter with the understanding that they will freely return the purchase money should you be dissatisfied. Beautiful actresses say, "A short massage with Howard's Buttermilk Cream at night before retiring is all that is necessary."—adv.

1000 Men Are Coming Here for Their 4th of July Clothes—Let's Make it 1001

It's a pretty poor store that doesn't have something to say for itself around the 4th of July.

But it takes a pretty good one to say what we are telling you in the next paragraph.

We're not inviting you to come here simply because we want to sell you a suit or an outfit—we are seeking to add to our fold of friends because we don't think there is another store that is nearly so capable or able to give you the things you really want at a price you really feel like paying.

Strong talk—isn't it?

Yes—but our values speak louder than words!
